Kansas City Ballet Announces 2021-2022 Season

Dracula, The Wizard of Oz, and Celts
and return of holiday favorite The Nutcracker welcome back audiences

KANSAS CITY, MO (May 14, 2021) — Kansas City Ballet Artistic Director Devon Carney today announced the company's 2021-2022 season, which opens with a mixed repertoire featuring Lila York's Celts celebrating movement and music, continues with Michael Pink's mesmerizing Dracula, and concludes with Septime Webre's return of The Wizard of Oz. Along with the season, Carney is pleased to note the highly anticipated return of Carney's The Nutcracker in December and New Moves performances of brand new choreographic works in March—an annual favorite. High res photos, artwork and more can be found at <https://www.flickr.com/photos/67555847@N06/sets/>.

"The three headline performances of the upcoming season invite audiences to join our talented company as they perform a trio of incredible works this fall, then take us on a breathtaking journey into Gothic darkness, and finally share unexpected comradery on the yellow brick road," Carney says.

"It's an incredible season of crowd favorites. What's not to love?" he concludes.

Subscriptions, which range from $141 to $305 for the three-ballet package — a savings of 20 percent compared with single-ticket prices — now are available online at www.kcballet.org or by calling the Kansas City Ballet ticket office, 816-931-8993.

Celts

Oct. 15-24, 2021 | Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts

The 2021-2022 season opens with a mixed-repertoire performance featuring three acclaimed ballets that celebrate the emotional combination of movement and music. Edwaard Liang's Wunderland, a winter wonderland of athletic dancing and intense passion, opens the show and is a gorgeous ballet washed in red and inspired by a giant snow globe.

George Balanchine's Serenade is set in moonlight and is known as Balanchine's most romantic ballet, an ode to the classic ballets Swan Lake and Giselle. Serenade is a milestone in dance and the first original ballet George Balanchine choreographed in America.

Finally, the program concludes with the featured work, Celts, the Kansas City premiere of a fiendish fusion of ballet and Irish step dance. Lila York debuted Celts at Boston Ballet – a year before Michael Flatley's Riverdance became a sensation – and is a stunning fusion of Irish folk dance and ballet. Set to the music of The Chieftains and more, this celebration of Irish culture has brought audiences to their feet with its choreographically intense jig and captivating energy.

Wunderland

Choreography by Edwaard Liang

Music by Philip Glass performed by The Opus 76 Quartet

Inspired by Choreographer Edwaard Liang's fascination with a replica of a small Siberian town captured within a snow globe, Wunderland is an abstract experience that allows audience members to find their own way through the beauty, emotion, and humanity of a winter wonderland. To match the pulsating rhythms of music by Philip Glass, Liang created movement that seamlessly molds striking poses and geometric formations to inspire both tension and harmony.

The Opus 76 Quartet was formed in 2017 by Keith Stanfield, Zsolt Eder, Ashley Stanfield and Sascha Groschang, while all four were performing together frequently in various orchestras. They are coached by recently retired founding member of the Takács Quartet, Károly Schranz. The Opus 76 Quartet, now in its 4th season, has become known for its entertaining and energetic interpretations of the classics. The Kansas City Star recently described the group as "Kansas City's gem of a quartet." For more information, please visit Opus 76 Quartet.

Serenade

Choreography by George Balanchine
Music by Peter I. Tchaikovsky

The first original ballet Balanchine created in America; Serenade is considered a milestone in the history of dance. Originated as a lesson in stage technique, Balanchine worked unexpected rehearsal events into the choreography. When one student fell, he incorporated the fall into the dance. When a student arrived late, this too became part of the ballet. The score, Tchaikovsky's 1880 Serenade for Strings in C, reveals the special affinity Balanchine had for the romantic works of the Russian composer. "In everything I did to Tchaikovsky's music, I sensed his help," Balanchine once told an interviewer. "It wasn't real conversation. But when I was working and saw that something was coming of it, I felt that it was Tchaikovsky who had helped me."

Celts

Choreography by Lila York
Recorded Music by The Chieftains, William J. Ruyle, Bill Whelen and Mason Daring

Lila York debuted Celts at Boston Ballet in 1996 — a year before Michael Flatley's Riverdance became a sensation — and it was an immediate hit. Exuberant, complex, and fantastically fast, its modern and imaginative fusion of Irish step dance and ballet (including pointe work) requires virtuosic technique infused with pure joy. In its Kansas City premiere, the ballet springs across the stage to the irrepressible beat of Irish tunes by the Chieftains and others as the dancers attack speedy pirouettes and leaps. Super-charged roles give individual performers the opportunity to shine, but Celts is first and foremost an ensemble work in which the entire company of dancers is keenly alive.

Dracula

Feb. 18-27, 2022 | Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts

Based on Bram Stoker's classic gothic horror story and performed by the world-class dancers of Kansas City Ballet, Dracula is a spellbinding story of the nocturnal Count who survives on the blood of the living. Audiences will be mesmerized as they venture into the dark and eerie world of the infamous Count Dracula. With the combination of dramatic choreography by Michael Pink, an original, haunting score by Philip Feeney, dazzling costumes by Lez Brotherston, thrilling sets, and shocking special effects, Dracula delivers sensuality and danger in a dance/theater narrative combining story-enhancing sound effects like the beating heart that opens the show and the frightened voices of the humans Dracula is stalking. Accompanied by Kansas City Symphony, conducted by Kansas City Ballet Music Director Ramona Pansegrau, and featuring Feeney's gripping score, the dramatic music and cinematic scenery will captivate audience members from curtain rise to curtain fall.

Created in 1996 by Michael Pink, Artistic Director of Milwaukee Ballet Company, this terrifying yet romantic three-act drama has won critical acclaim in England, Australia, and North America. According to The Rocky Mountain News, Michael Pink's Dracula is "a bravura work of theatre - a taut, dark tale that happens to speak in the language of dance."

Choreographer Michael Pink states, "Dracula is unlike any other ballet. It's sinister and sensual at the same time; breathtaking yet horrific. The show has developed somewhat of a cult following, breaking box office records all over the world. I'm thrilled to be bringing it to Kansas City Ballet for the first time."

"Kansas City Ballet is excited to present Dracula to our community," Artistic Director Devon Carney said. "This fast-paced work—full of tremendous dramatic content and great moments of terror and love—will challenge and invigorate our artists to craft true three-dimensional characters to tell the haunting tale of Count Dracula."

The Wizard of Oz

May 13-22, 2022 | Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts

The 2021-2022 Season concludes with the much-anticipated return of the record-breaking production of The Wizard of Oz, a $1 million production. Every aspect of this ballet has been custom designed and created to wow audiences including choreography by Septime Webre, the creator of Alice (in wonderland), new music composed by Matthew Pierce, set design by Michael Raiford, costume design by Liz Vandal, lighting design by Trad A Burns, puppet design by Nicholas Mahon, and projection design by Aaron Rhyne.

The production will be accompanied by Kansas City Symphony conducted by Kansas City Ballet Music Director Ramona Pansegrau and runs May 13-22, 2022 at the Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts.

Story lines and visual elements from the classic motion picture provided by Warner Bros. Theatre Ventures.

The scale and grandeur of the production is impressive.

- At least 120 people, not including dancers, were part of this collaboration team including designers and makers.
- In Kansas City, 30 company dancers and 15 second company dancers make up the cast, not counting children.
- There are 23 children's roles and two casts for a total of 46 children performing in The Wizard of Oz, providing a huge asset to the development and growth of the Kansas City Ballet School.
- The musical score composed by Matthew Pierce, the same composer for Alice (in wonderland), is 471 pages long.
- There are 120 stunning costumes and 112 hats in the production. The costume shop paints 220 shoes. There are at least 60 costume changes during the production.
- There are upwards of 20 puppets including a mechanical Toto.
- More than 300 light cues take place using over 1000 channels of lights.
- There are eight flying effects by FOY executed by multiple characters.
- The animated projections, using a combination of three state-of-the-art projectors, add an integral design element that helps provide atmosphere and dimensionality, and enhance the experience.
- A total of 100 yards of LED lights running along the stage.
